

A man, Thurman Burleson, is standing in a cotton field. He is wearing a green baseball cap with "ROLLING HILLS CIV NEW LONDON, N.C." on it, a blue quilted jacket over a light blue striped shirt, and blue jeans. The field behind him has rows of cotton plants. In the distance, there are some farm buildings and hills under a cloudy sky.

 cotton^{of}the carolinas™
grown • made • sold • here

Thurman Burleson & Sons Farm

New London, NC

Ronnie Burleson

A 3rd generation farmer, Ronnie is the reason our shirts exist! He owns Thurman Burleson & Sons Farm along with his brother Dennis, son Andrew, and nephew Aaron.

Ronnie continues his father's cutting edge farming techniques and practices; he and his family were the first to bring cotton back to the Piedmont region in 1991, having left the area 40+ years before because of the boll weevil.

Of the 3400 acres that make up Ronnie's farm, 2000 of it is cotton, the rest a mix of corn and soybeans.

cottonofthecarolinas.com